

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How can I take rust stains out of a pale lavender dress without taking the color out?

ELIZABETH.

Anything that will take out the rust stain will also take out the color. But you might try sprinkling the stain with salt moistened with lemon juice; then lay in the sun. The method is slow but is least likely to injure color or material.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 22 and have kept company with a young lady of 20 for about three years. She moved about six months ago. I have a good position at $65 a month and there has been a mutual understanding between us that we will be married in about two years or so—nothing definite, however.

Is it proper that I should keep company with young ladies now on an average of once a week or more on certain occasions, such as theatre, club dances, etc.? Should I expect the same of the young lady I have first mentioned? I can get along nicely on $30 a month. Would you advise me to save the other $35 monthly or start to buy little things of future use?

JOHNNY.

My advice to you, Johnny, is to have a definite understanding with the girl at once, and announce your engagement. Don't wait that "two years or so." Make up your mind to get married as soon as possible and plan to use up that $35 extra together.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How can I whiten my elbows? (2)—I have a red scar by my lips, due to a cold sore. Can I bleach it or remove it? (3)—How long should a girl of 17 stay out without a chaperon? (4)—I am five feet six inches, weigh 128, bust 25. Am I well built? (5)—My hair becomes oily soon after washing. Is there a remedy for this? (6)—Should girls wear pajamas? C. J. C.

(1)—Use peroxide or lemon juice. Rub cold cream into them every night.

(2)—Massaging with cold cream is about all you can do now. It will wear away in time. (3)—She should be home after dark. (4)—Yes. (5)—Rub the following mixture into the scalp daily: two ounces alcohol, two ounces witch hazel, 14 grains resorcin. (6)—Wear them if you like, but they are not comfortable as the good old-fashioned "nightie."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Where can I have silver washed, that has worn off? Will it cost much? (2)—Can you print the song "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse"? (3)—What will prevent stove polish from sticking to and staining the hands? (4)—What is a good remedy for heartburn? What causes it? I have it almost every day. Is it from drinking too much coffee? I am very fond of it. (5)—What is good to rid one of worms? GOLDEN ROD.

(1)—Inquire of a silversmith. I think it can be done, but it is expensive. (2)—I have not enough space in this department. Write a letter to the editor of this paper and ask him if he will publish it. (3)—Rub the hands well with lard, getting it well under and around the nails, before using the blocking. You can wash it off afterward without leaving a stain. (4)—Too much coffee will cause heartburn. Stop the coffee gradually by putting a little more hot milk in it every day. Watch what you eat and when you find it disagrees with you, don't eat that particular thing any more. Chewing peppermint gum will sometimes help heartburn. Soda mint tablets help some. But you can only stop it by not eating the things that disagree with you. (5)—An old remedy is to eat pumpkin seeds, but you had better see a doctor.

SOCIETY

SALE IN INTEREST OF CHARITY.

THE MEMBERS OF THE HELPERS' circle of King's Daughters have taken upon themselves the care of tubercular patients in the city and have provided them with all necessary articles of food and clothing. They have also undertaken to pay the salary of the assistant visiting nurse and in numerous other charitable enterprises have interested themselves. In order to assist them in meeting these self-imposed obligations they are conducting a sale tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. T. A. Murphy, 561 Thirtieth street. They have made a special feature of clown dolls, of which they have dressed a large number and will offer them for sale. These dolls have met with great favor by the little mothers and will delight any child. Another attractive feature will be a Christmas tree hung with snowballs. These snowballs contain articles worth the price that is marked on them, the buyer, however, taking a change on the contents. Fancy articles and candies and bakery goods will be offered for sale and the members are anxious that their friends help them by attending and making purchases.

CAMP-TALLMAN.

THE MARRIAGE OF MISS BERNICE Tallman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Tallman, 1767 Twenty-fourth-and-a-half street, and William C. Camp of this city took place yesterday at noon at the parsonage of the First Baptist church, Dr. H. W. Reed officiating. The couple was unattended. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to members of the family. The bride wore a blue tailored suit. Mr. Camp is employed at the James restaurant. His bride has been employed as operator for the Central Union Telephone company. Mr. and Mrs. Camp will make their home for the winter with the bride's parents.

RUTH'S BAND MEETS.

MRS. W. H. MARSHALL, 599 Twenty-sixth street, was hostess yesterday afternoon to members of Ruth's band of Broadway Presbyterian church.

terday afternoon to members of Ruth's band of Broadway Presbyterian church. Mrs. Cook conducted the devotionals and gave a short talk in connection with the service. Miss Edna Carl gave a review of the fourth chapter of the study book "The Light of the World," the subject of which was Mohammedanism. Mrs. R. J. Fullerton and Miss May Cullen played a piano duet and Mrs. Jay Clarkson gave a reading "The Mohammedan Wedding." Mrs. Daniel Hayes sang and Mrs. Clevenstein read a paper on the subject "The New Woman of Persia." Miss Florence McCombs played a piano solo and Mrs. Cox closed the program by reading an article on "The Mountaineers." A very pleasant social hour was enjoyed following the program and the ladies were served to lunch.

FRED WOLTMAN

Receiver

Some years ago in a Wisconsin city there lived a certain rich man, father of an only and beautiful daughter. During one of the Christmas seal campaigns he was approached for a contribution by one of the workers. His refusal was needlessly curt, and cut sharply into the spirit of the pretty young campaigner. For, after all, the work meant nothing to her but an opportunity to show her interest.

Within the year the grim white destroyer passed this man's way, and, reaching out, clutching his daughter, just flowering into young womanhood, seized her to its bosom. The man fought back, as men will fight for the things dear to them, but the fight was an unequal one. Like the flower she typified, the daughter drooped and withered before the searing enemy, and with swift and merciless cruelty and scythe of death swept her to the harvest of eternity.

It was then hard upon a new seal campaign, and in the course of events another worker approached this certain rich man. Crushed and humbled by the burden of his sorrow, he reached for his check book and filled out a check for a generous contribution—paying a debt to his conscience—to a conscience that scarce could forgive.

Now, this man's check a year before wouldn't, of itself, have wiped out the devastating disease—not if it had been written in the wealth of a Rockefeller. Nor, perhaps, would it have saved his daughter—though who can say as to that? Who can say what lives have been saved because a group of two-fisted fighters have gone forth and forced sanatoria onto a complacent people, and put visiting nurses at work cleaning up the pools of disease? Perhaps you are one of these, who, going your careless way, have been saved from black despair, because someone, who didn't even know you, was thoughtful of your welfare. And so this man's check would not have cleansed a disease-ridden world, but it would have helped. Just as the offering that you and I give will help.
